

It sounds like a myth—this report about guards being killed in preventing a delivery of penitentiary inmates in Kentucky. Convicts in Oklahoma have another way.

Tonight and Friday cloudy, probably showers; cooler in east portion tonight.

BARRAGE TURNED ON CONVICTS IN PRISON LODGE

Fusillade of Bullets Fail

TWO VICTIMS NOW

Prison Guards, Militia and Citizens Plan Attack on Desperados.

(By the Associated Press)

EDDYVILLE, Ky., Oct. 4.—A barrage directed against the state penitentiary building where three convicts had barricaded themselves since their attempt to escape yesterday morning was laid down by 25 national guardsmen and 55 prison guards shortly after noon today.

A machine gun on the third floor of the administration building and one on the chapel a short distance from the fugitives' fort swept the improvised fortress until a fusillade of 1,600 rounds was exhausted. The three desperados were reported to have fired 12 shots in return.

EDDYVILLE, Ky., Oct. 4.—Hemmed in by grim gray stone walls of the prison area of the Western Kentucky state penitentiary, three convicted murderers who yesterday killed one guard and wounded three others, one probably fatally, in an attempt to shoot their way to freedom, were barricaded today in the two-story brick dining room building, the central structure of the prison plant.

From behind walls and improvised points of vantage the besiegers formed a ring of death.

Stationed around the barricaded building were prison guards, members of Troop C from the national guard machine gun company at Hopkinsville and citizen marksmen from the neighboring countryside. The 10 barrels of the two machine guns were trained upon the building ready to pour a withering fire on the convicts if they attempted to escape.

Prison authorities and national guard officers were expected to increase their activity today and attempt to dislodge the besieged convicts. Monte Walters of Louisville, Lawrence Griffith of Mayfield and Harry Ferland, reported to have been uncommitted from Newport.

A tear gas squad of the Louisville police arrived but the use of the gas was held up because of exposing the assaulting party to the fire of the besieged men. Tear gas bombs were ordered from the state arsenal and were expected to arrive today.

The victims of convicts in their break for liberty were Hodge Cunningham, who was shot dead, V. B. Mattingly, who was probably fatally wounded, W. M. Gilbert, whose condition is reported critical, and W. P. Gillihan, Gilbert and Gillihan were sent to the hospital at Paducah.

The first plane today for driving the desperados from their place of refuge called for a scheme to use the pipes of the steam heating plant to force tear gas and red pepper into the rooms where the men are holding out.

During the fusillade of yesterday a stray bullet hit one of the pipes. Clouds of steam in the room gave the prison authorities the first intimation of the fact and today they began preparations to load one of the mains leading to the room with gas and pepper and force it into the room with steam. The gas and pepper idea, however, was abandoned as impractical. Instead plans were made to train the machine guns on the building, maintain a steady fire and at an opportune moment rush the structure with the guards and state soldiers now numbering 121.

Mattingly, the guard who was wounded by Walters and his companions, died of his wounds in the prison hospital. Mattingly lay in the lee of the dining hall all day yesterday trying for water after he had been shot but the guards and civilians were unable to give him relief as it would have taken them into the path of the barricaded convicts' bullet. He was later carried to safety by a convict trusty.

TEN VICTIMS OF WRECK LOCATED

Shifting of Sands of Creek
Bed Gives Up Five Victims.

(By the Associated Press)

CASPER, Wyo., Oct. 4.—The body of W. E. Hendricks, railway mail clerk, was recovered from the Coal Creek wreck today. It was dug from the mail compartment of the combination car. Hendricks was the tenth victim to be recovered.

Shifting sands of the creek yesterday gave up the bodies of five persons who lost their lives in the wreck. Four of them were men and the other a woman.

Last night the bodies were identified by Burlington officials as follows: F. R. Parker of New York city; Fred Fargo of Casper; Charles Brown of Denver; W. S. Wilson of Denver, an international organizer of the printers union, and Mrs. Minnie Owens of Casper.

The body of the woman was found in the Platte river at a point 20 miles from the wreck. It had lodged in a shallow place of the river before its discovery. Railway officials are of the opinion that a score of the victims were carried away when the train plunged into the high waters of the creek a short distance from where it empties into the river.

Indictments for Misdemeanors Now on County Docket

Misdemeanors, constituting various charges, as returned by the Pontotoc county grand jury which took form here September 12, will not be brought to trial in the next session of county court, which swings into being October 15.

The indictments on misdemeanor charges were filed too late to be placed on the county docket, it was stated this morning.

Felony indictments will be placed on the district court docket for trial in the session to be held here some time in December, it was stated.

Marriage License Salesmen Record Gains for Month

The divorce court lawyers took a back seat in the matrimonial entanglements in Pontotoc county during the month of September, records on file in the district court clerk's office revealed.

During this particular month, 24 sought the bonds of wedlock in the face of marital and marital affairs now existing, while only 6 homes came under the gavel of divorce court action in the filings of the month.

This percentage is the smallest for the year.

Savages at Durant, traditional gridiron enemies.

The first whistle Friday afternoon will find the greatest wealth of football material ever assembled on the gridiron under the Orange and Black of East Central. Every berth on the eleven-seated football machine of East Central finds a horde of contenders for passage on the year's trip for gridiron recognition from the Alma Mater.

While the line has claimed an influx of new material that makes it stand practically impregnable, the four running positions in the backfield are being hotly contested. In the tentative lineup for the first whistle, Potts, Ada high school star and selection of the mythical all-state eleven, is the only addition to the backfield of last year. Potts at fullback carries 182 pounds of weight, speed and fight to the line of the opponents. Johnson, Kelly and Cunningham, captain, are the old hands on the backfield. Capps and Stegall, who have earned positions on the all-state eleven in past years are considered the best bids on the line.

Through the grilling practice of the past few weeks, Coach Milam contends that his team is ready for the best in the state.

Frogs Open Pep Campaign

Slumbering Ada sportdom was awakened with a mighty yell from the Frogs, College pep organization, in their first public demonstration last night.

All the stored-up energy of East Central was loosed to assuage the enthusiasm for the first gridiron battle of the season Friday afternoon.

While the business district of Ada resounded with the enthusiasm of the Frogs and their protégés, the Tadpoles, Ada realized that East Central had taken on a serious aspect toward her grid record and that the backing of the city was essential.

All forms of initiative stunts were inflicted on the Tadpoles in the presence of hundreds of people who thronged the streets of the city.

The Frogs and Tadpoles will perform on the Park field Friday afternoon.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 4.—Hearing on the injunction action brought by members of the state legislature to prevent Governor Walton and his representatives from interfering with their effort to hold an impeachment session set for this morning was postponed until afternoon by agreement of counsel.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 4.—Hearing on the injunction action brought by members of the state legislature to prevent Governor Walton and his representatives from interfering with their effort to hold an impeachment session set for this morning was postponed until afternoon by agreement of counsel.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 4.—Members of the Oklahoma legislature went on investigating the impeachment charges against Gov. J. C. Walton went into the district court here today to test their authority to convene as an inquisitorial body without a call from the governor.

Meanwhile in another spectacular court battle the executive was marshaling his forces to prevent the vitalizing of the constitutional amendment passed in Tuesday's election which would delegate this power to the legislature.

Argument will start today before District Judge James L. Phelps on the legislators' application for an injunction to prevent interference with any meeting they might set which was instituted a week ago after military forces under the governor's orders had barred the law-makers from assembling on their own call in the state capitol.

National guard officers and members of the governor's state police force are named as defendants in the proceedings.

A lengthy fight is predicted. Members of the legislature have declared they will take the case to the United States supreme court if necessary. Until a final decision is rendered they have pledged themselves not to attempt another meeting.

Hearing on the application to make permanent the district court injunction obtained yesterday by Gov. Walton to prevent the state election board from certifying the returns from the election with Secretary Sneed is set for October 9.

Governor Charges Klan.

The governor charged that the election was controlled by the Ku Klux Klan and predicted in a statement last night "the greatest political battle since the Civil War" during the next 60 days. Legislators leading the impeachment move replied with a denial that the Klan is an issue in Oklahoma.

Notwithstanding that Gov. Walton postponed Tuesday's election by official decree on the grounds that it was illegal and calling an election for December 6 to submit the legislative proposal, belated reports early today continued to give a decisive majority for the amendment.

COUNTY RETURNS GIVE AMENDMENT SECURE MARGIN

Total Vote on Legislative Amendment for County
Stands at 2,783.

MAJORITY OF 1,080

Twenty-Two Precincts in County Opposed to
No. 79.

Pontotoc county voiced an outstanding approval of the measure, which would enable legislature to convene on the call of its members in the vote on amendment No. 79, complete returns from 44 precincts in Pontotoc county revealed today.

Final returns gave the legislature amendment a lead of 1,080, 2,763 votes being cast for the amendment and 1,683 against.

The school tax levy also received a lead of 426 votes after the silent vote had been figured against the total favoring the amendment. The school levy measure received 2,392 votes, while 1,749 votes were cast against the measure. The silent vote on this measure totalled 215 which made the total against the measure stand at 1964.

Other measures where the silent vote played an important part resulted in the defeat of the measures. Legislative amendment No. 79 did not take the silent vote. The silent vote was figured from the total number of ballots used, which was 456.

Twenty-Two Oppose

While the county registered a heavy lead in favor of the legislative amendment, twenty-two precincts turned in totals opposing the amendment. Precincts opposing the amendment were: Steedman, Union Valley, Walden, Wilson, Franks, West Roff, Maxwell, Lightning Ridge, Ahloso, Bebe, Conway, Center, Lulu, Lanham, Owl Creek, Loveridge, Egypt, Frisco Halls Hill, Hart, Jesse and Knox.

Over half of the lead obtained in the county favoring the passage of the legislative amendment came from the voting in the city of Ada. Nine precincts in the city of Ada sent in 1,443 of the total of 2,783 votes in the county favoring the amendment. Ada also sent in a strong vote favoring the school tax levy.

The complete total for the county was obtained shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when the boxes from Jesse and Herd were brought in.

Election board officials were busy today tabulating the returns and preparing an official return on the county's voting to be turned over to the state board. John Beard, chairman of the board, announced that returns would probably be forwarded to the state election board tomorrow.

Sheriff Deputies Kept Busy Serving County Subpoenas

The entire personnel of the sheriff's office is kept on the run serving subpoenas for the call of the district civil court now in session before District Judge J. W. Bolen. Undersheriff P. H. Deal stated today.

With the opening of the civil term Monday, a bundle of subpoenas were placed in the hands of the undersheriff and the business of the court in that respect has not abated since.

Subpoenas claim witnesses in important civil suits from all corners of the county and often requires a more intricate search from other parts of the state.

The sheriff's office had been deluged with subpoenas for the grand jury session during the three weeks previous.

Oil Production in Country Shows Decrease for Week

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Daily average gross crude oil production of the United States decreased 22,450 barrels for the week ending September 29, totaling 2,220,250 barrels, according to the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute. Daily average production of Rocky mountain was 1,366,250 barrels, a decrease of 28,480. California production was 854,000 and an increase of 6,000.

Oklahoma showed a daily average production of 405,400 barrels, a decrease of 16,800; Kansas 71,900 a decrease of 250; North Texas 67,950 an increase of 1,150; Central Texas 268,450 a decrease of 7,650; North Louisiana 57,100 an increase of 1,000; Arkansas 121,000 a decrease of 10,000; Gulf Coast 97,950, an increase of 100; Wyoming and Montana 167,500, an increase of 2,500.

RESULTS OF ELECTION IN PONTOTOC CO.

Fair Size Vote Polled Despite Confusion About Election Call.

NO. 79 CARRIES HERE

Soldiers' Bonus Loses by a Heavy Margin; School Tax Carries.

The county election board received and tabulated the election returns late Wednesday afternoon with the following results: Question 41, providing for payment of compensation in case of death in an industrial accident—for 1,690; against 2,108.

Question 42, making women eligible to all elective offices—for 2,215; against 1,695.

Question 43, Soldiers' bonus—for 1,522; against 2,445.

Question 44, school levy—for 2,392; against 1,749.

Question 45, paying depositors of failed state banks—for 896; against 2,911.

Initiated Bill 79, permitting the legislature to meet without call of governor—for 2,752, against 1,683.

The greatest interest was manifested in the last of the six measures, 4,435 votes being cast one way or the other on it.

Elections were held at all precincts in the county with the exception of Tyrola. Supplies were sent to that place but the polls were not opened.

The nine boxes of Ada rolled up a heavy majority for No. 79 the total vote being 1,443 for and 403 against. With the exception of West Roff all town boxes gave this question a favorable majority, but several rural precincts were decisively against it.

No irregularities have been reported from any part of the county, according to the announcement of county election board officials. Voters went to the polls with the assurance that they would be given the right of suffrage without opposition. In the few precincts in the county where opposition to the initiative measure existed no disturbance was felt and little soliciting done at the polls.

Ballot returns began coming into the office of Dr. Sam A. McKeel, secretary of the county board, soon after the closing of the polls and before 8 o'clock the entire city vote had been tabulated.

Returns from other towns in the county were tabulated during the later hours of the evening, while on a few of the outlying rural precincts had sent in their official count before the election board ceased functioning last night at 11 o'clock.

NINETEEN BOXES LAST NIGHT

Nineteen boxes had been brought to the office of Dr. McKeel before the office was closed Tuesday night. A few other precincts had been heard from but official returns had not been filed.

Only one precinct election in the county was halted by officials of the precinct board. Tyrola registered that only refusal to vote and obeyed the decree sent out by Governor J. C. Walton. One member of the precinct board favored the election but two others refused to conduct it as ordered by the state and county board. No action has been taken on the matter at the present time.

No interference with the functioning of the present election board was reported last night. Mrs. Pearl Jones of Roff, who received an appointment from Ira Mitchell at the same time A. R. Sugg was named to succeed Dr. Sam A. McKeel presented herself this afternoon before Miss Ruth McWhert of Roff in the office of Dr. McKeel and was refused recognition by Miss McWhert. The action is thought to be merely formal.

The matter of delivery of official returns of Pontotoc county to the state board is yet a matter of doubt. If necessary, board members asserted, the returns would be conducted personally to Oklahoma City and placed in the hands of the state election board.

HOGS FALL AT THE PACKING CENTERS

OKLAHOMA CITY.—Order buying on the part of Arkansas and California packers featured the Tuesday session of the local hog market. Tendency at all markets was toward a lower basis and locally what went to packers sold generally 10¢ lower while kinds suitable for shippers sold higher. Packer top was established at $7.30, while shippers paid up to 7.50 bulk selling $7.15 and up. Stockers ranged $4@ $6 with a few heavier selling up to $5.25.

ROFF OFFICIALS HELD BY ACTION OF GRAND JURY

Accusations Returned Against Bob Bell and Members Of Trustee Board

GRIND ENDS SATURDAY

Twenty-Six True Bills Result From Probe of Affairs In County

(From Sunday's Daily)

Ending their eighteen-day investigation of affairs in Pontotoc county, the Pontotoc county grand jury struck a swift blow at reported law violations in the county by returning 26 true bills with two accusations against officers at Roff when the body made a final report late Saturday afternoon.

In a period of secret investigation hampered four times by illness of jurors, death in the family of a juror and water-bound weather conditions, the jury struggled against the outside forces to bring in the report of their findings Saturday.

The accusations filed against Town Marshall Bob Bell and members of the town board of trustees at Roff on charges of oppression in office were the nucleus of investigation, the number of witnesses from Roff and the immediate vicinity indicated.

The report of the jury further indicated that 7 felony indictments and 19 misdemeanor charges had been set out as the findings of the body. The indictments for murder against Mack Lee and Banks Robertson on separate charges were included in the list of felony indictments. The misdemeanor charges covered a wide field of alleged law violation that will come before the jurisdiction of County Judge Tal Crawford.

The names of parties involved in the indictments tendered by the grand jury will be published at a later date, arrests have not been made in any of the indictments tendered by the grand jury.

County Attorney J. W. Dean, who assisted in the probe, stated that every effort was made to cover the allegations brought out in the charge to the jury and conditions in general had been investigated over the county.

The report of the jury indicated that 197 witnesses had been subpoenaed and had testified before the jury since it swung into session September 12.

CASTLEBERRY IS HELD ON CHARGE

Vanoss Attorney Suffers Knife Wounds in Affray Early This Morning.

(From Tuesday's Daily)

Charges of assault with a dangerous weapon were filed before Justice Joseph Anderson this morning against Claud Castleberry in connection with the alleged stabbing of Ed Walker, attorney of Vanoss, at the culmination of a brawl in the office of Attorney U. G. Winn at an early hour this morning.

Walker, who was rushed to a local hospital shortly after the affray, was reported resting well this morning and not in a critical condition.

Investigation conducted by the county attorney's office led to the filing of the complaint this morning to the effect that Castleberry had inflicted serious bodily wounds with a dangerous weapon, a knife.

Assistant County Attorney George Burris stated that investigation revealed that Castleberry and Walker had engaged in an argument and Castleberry had struck Walker several times before they were separated. A knife was found in Castleberry's hand.

The complaint instructed that U. G. Winn, Homer T. Carney and Ed. Walker be subpoenaed as witnesses.

Walker suffered three knife wounds, an artery severance in the leg proving serious in the loss of blood.

Castleberry was arrested by the sheriff's deputies this morning at 9 o'clock.

SWOLLEN STREAM CLAIMS VICTIMS IN TRAIN WRECK

Scores Believed Perished in Passenger Train in River Grave.

FEW MAKE ESCAPE

Entire Train Plunges Into Swollen Stream When Bridge Gives Way.

(DENVER, Sept. 28.)—No bodies can be recovered from the wreck near Casper, Wyoming, until a derrick can lift the wreck cars from the flood waters of Coal Creek, according to a special dispatch received by the Denver Post from Casper.

A special train that left Casper at 7:30 this morning returned later for the derrick. The train crew stated that the water was still rising and that rain and snow were falling alternately. The water is so high that the derrick must be used to lift the cars from the stream according to the crew.

CASPER, Wyo., Sept. 28.—Estimates of the number of persons who lost their lives last night when C. B. & Q. passenger train No. 30 plunged into Coal creek near here differed early today. The lowest figures placed the dead at 40. A railroad telegraph operator at Glenrock, near the scene of the wreck, who assisted in the rescue work said that the death list would amount to 100.

No bodies had been recovered up to daylight according to a telegraph message from the scene. Rising water in Coal creek and the Platte river nearby hampered the work of rescue.

All rescue work had to be temporarily abandoned about 2 o'clock this morning. It began snowing about that time after 24 hours of continuous rainfall.

The scene of the wreck is about 14 miles east of Casper and about two miles west of the Big Muddy oil field and seven miles from Glenrock. The nearest flag station is Leckett. The scene of the wreck is in a sandy, rolling country, and near the place where Coal creek flows into the Platte river. The river runs along the track for about a quarter of a mile. The Platte is barely a stone's throw from the point where the creek empties into the larger stream. The creek is ordinarily dry.

The train left Casper at 8:35 o'clock last night. It was made up of a mail, express and baggage car, two chair cars and two Pullman sleepers. The wreck occurred in a lonely spot and details were not learned for several hours.

The train plunged into Coal creek swollen to many times its normal depth by mudflows and the passengers were buried into the torrents with little or no chance to escape.

The statue of limitations does not run out on a felony for three years or on a misdemeanor for two years, it was pointed out from the office of Short. The warning was issued that any attempt to interfere with the election either in the casting of votes or in the counting of ballots will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law by the attorney general here this afternoon.

The train plunged into Coal creek swollen to many times its normal depth by mudflows and the passengers were buried into the torrents with little or no chance to escape.

There was no screaming or confusion, everybody just set to work opening windows to get out. A Pullman porter passed me a rope with which he dragged me to the bank and at least six others besides myself escaped.

The roar of the water could be heard three miles away suddenly did the dry creek of the summer become swollen into a raging torrent by the heavy rains.

A track walker had inspected the culvert over Coal creek less than an hour before the passenger train was due. He reported everything was all right although the stream was rising.

The complaint instructed that U. G. Winn, Homer T. Carney and Ed. Walker be subpoenaed as witnesses.

Walker suffered three knife wounds, an artery severance in the leg proving serious in the loss of blood.

MICHELL TRIES TO APPOINT NEW ELECTION BOARD

McKeel Refuses to Accept Appointment of A. R. Suggs by Mitchell.

MCALISTER INSTRUCTS

McAlester Informs McKeel to Pay no Attention to Appointments.

(From Tuesday's Daily)

A move to re-construct the county election board under the instruction of Ira Mitchell was thwarted at 2:30 this afternoon when Sam A. McKeel, secretary of the Pontotoc county election board, refused to recognize the appointment of A. R. Suggs and Mrs. Pearl Jones at the hands of Mitchell.

McKeel's action was governed by the instructions of W. C. McAlister, secretary of the state election board, who instructed him to pay no attention to attempted appointments by Mitchell.

McKeel's refusal to heed the appointment of Sugg was made at 2:30 this afternoon when Sugg presented himself at the office of McKeel armed with the instruction.

McKeel's reply to the appointment was to the effect that he could not deliver himself or the affairs of the election board into Sugg's hands. McKeel was asked by Sugg if he refused to heed the appointment. McKeel affirmed his refusal to abide by the appointment.

McKeel had received previous instructions from McAlister to the effect that appointments were being made by Mitchell and was summarily instructed to disregard any appointing, assuring McKeel that outer proceedings would be filed by Attorney General George Short against any officer that interfered.

McKeel was also instructed to have any one arrested who attempted to interfere with the functioning of the county board, stating that the interference constituted a felony.

The order of appointment of Sugg and Mrs. Pearl Jones was sent to John Beard, other member of the county board, notifying him that he was reappointed to serve with Sugg and Mrs. Jones. The telegram of appointment was signed by Mitchell, who signed as secretary of the state election board.

McKeel stated late this afternoon that the election was being carried on without mishap so far and that the ballot boxes would remain in the hands of the present board until duly authorized by McAlister.

Oklahoma City, Oct. 2.—(UPI)—That there may be attempts to interfere with the election machinery of the state was intimated from the office of the attorney general here this afternoon.

The statue of limitations does not run out on a felony for three years or on a misdemeanor for two years, it was pointed out from the office of Short. The warning was issued that any attempt to interfere with the election either in the casting of votes or in the counting of ballots will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law by the attorney general here this afternoon.

According to reports received here today from reliable sources, Henry Weatherly, charged with murder in connection with the slaying of Henry Burrow last month, was acquitted of the charge by a jury at Coal Creek.

The trial before J. H. Linenbaugh of Atoka lasted for four days and claimed a number of witnesses from Pontotoc county as well as Coal Creek.

The jury was out about one hour. Those subpoenaed as witnesses from this county were used by the defense in most instances as character testimony.

Robert Wimbish, local attorney, led the defense for Weatherly.

FLOODS IN WYOMING ARE DAMAGE TO RANCHERS

CASPER, Wyo., Oct. 1.—A flood in the Big Horn river over a stretch of 75 miles between Thermopolis and Greybull, Wyo., will wipe out many farms and ranches.

No estimate of the damage has been given. It is understood that the water had reached its highest point and that it was beginning to recede about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Livestock and fine arts exhibits shown at the fair here will not be taken to the Muskogee fair except through individuals.

J. B. Hill, county agent, and Mrs. Elva Duvall, home demonstration agent, will have charge of the fair exhibit at Muskogee.

The exhibit, which will be under the charge of J. B. Hill, county agent, is the choice variety of farm stuff grown in Pontotoc county and prize winning exhibits at the County Free Fair held here last month.

Practically every farm commodity exhibited at the Pontotoc County Free Fair will be sent to Muskogee with the best in every variety completing the county exhibit.

Ten boys and girls, winners of the prizes offered by the county fair board, will be taken to the Muskogee fair. Eight club winners attended the free fair at Oklahoma City.

A NEW ERA AHEAD.

The result of Tuesday's election is notice to the world that Oklahoma is not a state where lawlessness prevails. The people waited until they could act in a legal manner and then expressed themselves in no uncertain terms. Oklahoma was beginning to suffer as a result of the turmoil and misrepresentation that have existed for some weeks but they have demonstrated their readiness to act through legal channels and in an orderly way. This should speedily restore the confidence of both citizens and outsiders. Oklahoma is a great state peopled with great men and women and will continue to move forward in the march of progress as in the past.

The legislators are to be commended for their course of moderation when kept from their hall at the point of bayonet Wednesday. From the first they had declared that they had no intention of resorting to force and they kept their pledge, although the governor had talked as if a general battle might be expected and had ordered all men of military age to oil up their guns and be ready to come to his rescue at a moment's notice. The legislators by their wise course will do much to discount all this talk of bloodshed and revolution. A perusal of the Literary Digest shows that in other parts of the Union the idea prevails that this state is on the verge of a bloody civil war but the legislators by their calmness have shown that if there is any trouble it will not start with them.

Politics is a great game—for the politicians—but it seldom brings many dollars to the average voter. A man should always vote and vote as his conscience dictates, but it never pays to become unduly excited.

THE WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS.

In the days when the word of the king was the supreme law of the land it was possible for a man to be arrested and confined in prison for years without formal charges being filed or an opportunity given for a trial. The abuse of this power was one of the causes of the revolt against King John and the provision in the Magna Charta he was compelled to sign that no free man should be deprived of his liberty without due process of law. However, it was not until the reign of Charles II that the procedure was clearly outlined.

As the term itself indicates the procedure means the bringing of the body of the accused into court where a hearing is had on the sufficiency of the charge under which he is held. If the court decides there is not sufficient ground for depriving him of his liberty he is set free. The court may also free him under a bond of stipulated amount. Of course if it is held that the charges are sufficiently grave to justify it, he is returned to prison.

The United States constitution authorizes the suspension of the writ in time of invasion or rebellion. President Lincoln declared a suspension in 1861, but Chief Justice Taney ruled that this power could only be exercised with the consent of congress. This was authorized by congress in 1863.

The constitution of Oklahoma goes still farther and forbids the suspension of the writ by any power whatsoever. In Oklahoma the provision is so liberal that a prisoner may be heard on a personal letter to the court.

The purpose of the writ is to make it possible for an accused person to be given a speedy hearing. Without it, it would be possible for a man to be imprisoned indefinitely on a trumped up or frivolous charge. Under it the prosecution is forced to show its hand and the defendant knows just what he has to expect.

An exchange remarks that any fool can quit a job but it is a wise man who sticks and makes the most of the situation. Very sound philosophy. We have seen men quit a job thinking that their places could not be filled and that their quitting would cause the boss men many pangs of regret. However, when one man quits there is always some one else who can step in and fill the job as well or better than he did and he is soon forgotten. No man ever had a job that exactly suited him. Some things he does not like are always coming up but that is part of the game of life.

One thing that will always tend to lessen class hatred in the United States is that no matter in what station a boy finds himself, he may climb up or down to another. When a man sees his son making a success in some line chosen by himself, he is not going to consider every man similarly engaged as his enemy. Reason tells him that his son is not the only one in that particular business or profession who is not his enemy, no matter what political agitators may tell him.

Overzeal has the same result as a shot gun loaded with half a pound of powder, does more damage to the one behind the gun than the ones aimed at.

OKLAHOMA NEEDS PEACE.

If Oklahoma is to go forward we must have peace and have it quickly. The state has suffered damage that will require the work of years to repair as a result of the Walton regime. Other states have been made to believe that we are a people with guns on our hips and shooting one another for amusement when time was hanging heavy on our hands. Such an opinion is working terribly against the state. One indication of the strenuous times ahead is seen in the refusal of bond buyers to purchase Oklahoma bonds although until the past few weeks these have always been eagerly sought. Credits are likely to be curtailed—in fact it is reported that this is already being done—and unless something is done to restore confidence the situation will be deplorable. Conditions in Oklahoma have not been half as bad as painted but the farther one is from an event the larger it looms of the real facts in the case have been unduly alarmed and worse scared than the Oklahomans themselves.

We do not take much stock in talk about the world in general and Oklahoma in particular going to the bow wows. In the past every state and nation has gone through some severe crises, but in the end things have turned out for the best. The war tore up things as they were never torn before, and created some weighty problems but the world is not going to be thrown into anarchy and barbarism on that account. In the end things will work out right and the march of progress will be resumed. The same applies to Oklahoma. We have a state of which every citizen should be proud. It is still a new state and many problems are yet to be worked out but Oklahoma is not going on the rocks because of them. Of course many unpleasant things have happened and a good many more are yet in store for us, but eventually Oklahoma will take the place to which she is entitled, right up at the head of the column.

The great drawback about trying to run away from troubles is that about the time a man gets away from those besetting him in one place a lot more light on the place to which he fled. It is like the farmer who moved to Texas because of the grasshoppers. The next year there was no grasshoppers in Kansas but there was a severe drouth in Texas. He straightway moved back to Kansas only to be met with the grasshoppers while a big crop was raised in Texas. The moves broke him completely while if he had remained in either state he would have been in fair shape. One will find troubles everywhere he goes as well as some of the good things of life. A man must make up his mind to accept the mixture and make the best of it.

Greece must pay Italy fifty million lire, as indemnity for the killing of Italian officers on Greek soil some weeks ago. An editor not familiar with Italian money and thinking that the word "lire" was a typographical error, remarked that the United State has a good many liars it could spare if Italy needs them.

COUNTY EXHIBITORS FAIR BRING REWARD

(From Sunday's Daily)
Capt. C. W. Ballard, who has just returned from the state fair at Oklahoma City, states that in the White Wyandotte class he won first pullet, third cockerel, third hen and second pen.

In both cases Capt. Ballard says those who won over them were their customers and beat them with their own stock.

In the boys and girls clubs Agent Hill gives the following report: Honey club, Archie Solomon second, Addie Solomon third, Denton Floyd fourth, Eldred Solomon seventh, W. A. Lambert ninth, Bill High tenth. The corn clubs as a team won third place. As individuals Archie Solomon won first, Charlie Sargent tenth.

The small grain clubs Hansel Riddle won third on wheat and Edward Newell third on barley.

It is probable that this list is not complete. Others will be added as soon as information is available.

CHAPTER X

Captain Wrexham sat down. Except for the passing pallor of his face he appeared quite calm.

He was calm enough, goodness knows! Calm, with the deadly certainty that he was trapped. He had not a weapon within reach. He expected not the least mercy. He was too well aware how such men as Al Lee cherish ancient enmities and relish long-deferred vengeance.

The Manchu was smiling—another bad smile. Despite his years, his frame was tall and burly; his black jacket and trousers were of fine silk his hands hidden in the sleeves. His feet showed through the straps of sandals.

And this man was Chuen Ying. The schooner had been lying here for a week or more, so this yellow man must have known all about her long since. Captain Wrexham felt a trace of cold perspiration. How often in those days had he been stepping close to death. For once all his sang-froid was stricken, his garrulous tongue quenched.

He reached for a cigar, lighted it, and fastened his protruding eyes upon the Manchu.

"Well?" he asked quietly.

"You know, of course, that I have reasons for wanting to see you," said Ah Lee in a conversational tone. "I have had these reasons for a long time."

Wrexham nodded. "I always pay debts myself," he said.

"Of course." The other smiled gently. "I have tried several times to reach you, but failed. Why did you burn my junk back there at Palembang?"

Wrexham crossed his legs, puffed reflectively, and stared at the fire.

"Well," he answered, "that goes back to trouble I had with her skipper, when we were laying side by side at Timor Laut; and the whole thing started that way. Just how it was, I don't remember. One thing led to another. Finally he drowned one of my Kanakas at Palembang, and after that I left the harbor and laid him for the Manchu."

"I see," responded the Manchu. "All this was very unfortunate. It cost me a ship and a rich cargo—a very rich cargo."

This was true enough. Some of the loot was still aboard the Nautilus, in chests.

Captain Tom Wrexham had been in some tight places in the course of his life, but in none which pinched so tightly as this one. Being conversant with the world, he knew that he was them a muffled disturbance of the atmosphere—a dull, thudding vibration that was felt, rather than heard. Almost at once, it was followed by a second reverberating shock.

Ah Lee started, lifting eyes that were a sudden blaze of light. His hands moved slightly in his wide sleeves. But Wrexham waved his cigar and chuckled calmly.

"Don't worry," he said. "That was my irrigation machinery at work. Perhaps you don't know all the ins and outs of this place—"

"I know," said the Manchu. "But this—"

"Well," put in the seaman, "young Macarty was here last night and served notice on me, vice John Philbrick, to irrigate the rice fields. The water went down this morning. To-night I am irrigating—that's all!"

Admiration gleamed in the oblique Oriental eyes.

"So that was why you were out in a canoe this evening, when I arrived!"

"Oh! You knew that, did you?"

"Of course. You have been watching And you were—"

"Using up some old dynamite I had aboard the schooner. A time fuse and a float. Now, let's get back to first causes. You say that you and Miss Lavergne are friends? But, young Macarty intimated that you and he were friends likewise?"

"We have had dealings," returned the Manchu imperturbably. "He does not know that Miss Lavergne is my friend, however. Now, I should like to ask you a few questions."

Ah Lee regarded him. For a moment the black eyes were chill and terrible. "Until this morning, I fully intended to kill you, captain. Especially, since I have not long to live, and the disease grows on me. But now I have laid aside such thoughts."

"Reason bein' what?" inquired the seaman cheerfully, yet suspiciously.

"That friendship, in the scale of ethics, comes above revenge. Miss Lavergne is in deep trouble; she must have friends to aid her. The gods have sent you to that end."

Wrexham was instantly astonished. "Eh? Come, now—what about yourself?"

"Miss Lavergne is my friend, captain," he said. "You love her as I do, I perceive—with the love that is permitted any man toward an object of rare beauty, whether it be a woman, a delicate porcelain, or a picture on the wall."

In this tone was a fine irony, which Wrexham could not at all understand. For a moment the skipper was tempted to think that there was something odd and queer about this picture of Aline Lavergne—then he forgot the notion instantly.

"What about them questions?" he demanded.

Ah Lee nodded. "Do you know anyone by the name of John Solomon?"

Wrexham frowned over his cigar, stared hard into the fire embers.

"No, can't say that I do—yet the name—hold on! I got it. There was a ship chandler of that name in Port Said, years ago. I mind the place, now. Lord, I ain't even thought o' Port Said in years!"

"You don't know the man, then?"

"Not personal, no."

Ah Lee removed his hands from his sleeves, produced his cigarette case, and lighted a tube.

"Did you ever hear mention of the Queen of Sheba? Or the Gemini? Or the Sea-moon?"

Wrexham turned and stared.

"Lord love me! This here is a rum go. And the farther you goes the rummer it gets! Here Macarty comes along and asks some such question, and now Wrexham's head jerked. Something in the tone of those words sharpened his glance.

"Ah! Then you know what's going on here?"

Ah Lee smiled. It was a smile of genuine amusement; a smile that ended in a richly musical laugh.

"Yes. Poor Philbrick! He learned something this day. When I left him he was like a man dumfounded."

"Oh, no!" said Wrexham. "You mean you told him things about me, eh?"

Ah Lee gave him a glance of astonishment.

"Of course not. About myself! You see, he has always considered me something as you or I would regard a lazy, worthless cootie. He knew or guessed that I was engaged in the traffic of liquor, and he had threatened to shoot me. What he never knew until today was that Miss Lavergne is a very dear friend of mine."

It was Wrexham's turn to be startled. He stiffened in his chair. But Ah Lee continued meditatively.

"We are friends, yes, but not openly. I am not, you understand, a very good person to be considered as the friend of a young girl—in this country. Often we have met and talked. Small favors have passed. During a year and more, we have progressed in our own form of friendship. You should really know her, captain. Asia is supposed to produce wonderful women, yet I have never encountered any with the peculiar charm of Miss Lavergne."

The protruding eyes of Wrexham were filled with a questioning and perplexed light.

This Oriental was speaking in a hushed and reverent voice, as one speaks of some high and sacred thing. Wrexham gradually comprehended that he was being furnished with certain vital information—that the Manchu had a deliberate purpose in what he was saying.

Ah Lee looked up and smiled, but now the smile was thin and dry, very sardonic.

"I will concede," he said, his words smoothly worded, "that you are a very evil man. You, undoubtedly, will concede that I am also a very evil person, a menace to the community. Yet, from my talk with Philbrick, I learned something about you."

"For example, that you were impelled to take this plantation in charge, because of a singular influence exerted upon you by Miss Lavergne's photograph. In other words, some residuum of basic good in your soul was awakened into life."

"It is!" grunted Wrexham, with a wary grimace. He was uneasy and disturbed.

At this instant there penetrated to stand many unguessed things about the other. Then Ah Lee bowed slightly and left the room.

Wrexham remained where he was. For a space the skipper stood motionless, watching the door that had closed. His face was a study in emotions. At length a sigh came from him.

"Lord, but this is a rum go!" he breathed. "A rum go, and no mistake! First I get that letter about the other party, then I run head-on into this chap."

His eyes wandered to the photograph on the mantel, and dwelt upon it in curious wonder. He addressed himself to the picture.

"And what happens? Why, miss, you turn up to save my rotten life, that's what! If I hadn't taken on this job, the yellow lad would ha' done for me. If it hadn't been for your picture, I'd not ha' taken it on. If it hadn't been—oh, Lord! I'm done up wif thinking about it, and that's the truth."

He sighed again, and lowered himself into his chair. As he himself might have expressed it, Wrexham could have been knocked down with a feather at the unexpected issues of his meeting with Ah Lee. It had not been a long conversation, but it had been brightly tense for Wrexham, who had, during a good half of it, expected to be killed at each instant. Now he found himself weak and shaken.

"He meant it, about dyin' and so forth," he ruminated, and looked up again at the picture. "Yes, ma'am, he loves you, and no mistake! That tumeric-dyed limb of the devil is in love with you! Just the same as I am, and no harm intended by sayin' so. It's your eyes lookin' right down into a man! I'm beginnin' to believe that you do exist, just like your picture. If you do, Lord help me when we meet! I'll turn missionary or something."

"And you saved my life. Instead of killin' me, the yellow beggar wishes me good luck! The rummest thing I ever heard in my life. And why did he do it? Because you were his friend, well, the whole thing's beyond me, that's all."

This was a mere figure of speech. The whole thing was not beyond Tom Wrexham, not in the least. As Ah Lee had said, he was no fool.

And he expected trouble when Macarty discovered that the dam was blown up.

OKLAHOMA LEADS

Under the above caption, this space in The News will be occupied with answers to the question, "Is Oklahoma a Good State for Farming?"

Each day a new answer will appear in the form of comparisons between Oklahoma and other states in crop production for the past four years. Our Oklahoma farmers make surprisingly fine showing,

The material is furnished by J. A. Whitehurst, president of the State Board of Agriculture, who writes us that all figures are from the census returns and federal reports.

An interesting and instructive analysis of Oklahoma's status as an agricultural state has been issued by J. A. Whitehurst, president of the State Board of Agriculture. It is a departure from the usual crop reports, in that it compares the incomes and expenses of crop growers in various states to show how Oklahoma ranks in financial returns.

A lot of people are not "sold" on the idea that Oklahoma offers favorable opportunities for making money farming. It is true for the last three years our farmers have lost money. But this is true of farmers elsewhere. There is evidence that farmers of other states have lost even more than ours have.

Many announce that they will quit farming in Oklahoma. Some contemplate returning to their native states. But farmers all over the United States are preparing to leave the farm, or to try their fortunes in other states. To all such we suggest that they study the facts presented about farming in various states as shown by the analysis issued by Mr. Whitehurst.

Since business is seriously affected by the status of farming, it is to the interest of business men that they become informed on the merits of Oklahoma in comparison with other states. If Oklahoma has superior merit, the fact should be scattered throughout the United States. Every business man could help in this.

In this issue of The News there appears the first of a series of statements on farming in Oklahoma taken from the report by the State Board of Agriculture. A different one will appear each day, under the caption "Oklahoma Leads". The figures quoted are official. The fine showing made by Oklahoma in comparison with the United States and with the states of highest production in each crop, is gratifying indeed. One is forced to concede that if, say, any state offers opportunity for success in farming superior to Oklahoma.

The states that rank 1st, 2nd and 3rd in total production by 1920 census; the average acre-value of average plow land for March, 1923; the annual gross returns on the investment are here shown from official government figures, in

Inactive Liver

"I have had trouble with an inactive liver," wrote Mrs. S. Nichols, of 4412 Spencer St., Houston, Texas. "When I would get constipated, I would feel a light, dizzy feeling in my head. To get up in the morning with a lightheadedness is often a sign that the stomach is out of order. For this I took Thedford's Black-Draught, and without a doubt can say I have never found its equal in any liver medicine. It not only cleanses the liver, but leaves you in such a good condition. I have used it a long time, when food does not seem to set well, or the stomach is a little sour."

From Sunday's Daily
Enrollment at the college has a last reached the anticipated mark of 1000, the first time in the history of the school in which that total has been reached during any term outside of the summer sessions.

So far as is known this is the largest enrollment of the six state teacher colleges. Edmund reported Thursday a total number of students at 1002, while the exact number enrolled here stands now at 1004. The college at Durant comes next with over 900 students and the other three teacher training institutions are trailing with smaller student bodies.

This number is in keeping with the rapid growth of the school and has been expected for the past two weeks by the college authorities.

Even more pleasing to the administration, according to President Linscheid, is the excellence of the work being done with the handicap of insufficient room and equipment. The school work now being done the president says, is the best that could possibly be asked of a student body of the size of that now being accommodated in two buildings.

A number of features are being added to the work of the year. Among these is a reorganization of the chemistry department under John Davis, who came to East Central from Texas. His department has been thoroughly renovated and is now in condition to welcome the most rigid inspection.

Foreign Languages Important

An unexpected interest in foreign languages, especially Spanish, has been shown by those taking work here now. The classes in Spanish have attracted a larger number of students than ever before, with much interest being taken in other languages.

Much news this week. Be sure and read it. Boy Scout for you might miss something. The scout masters meeting Sunday afternoon was well attended. All of the Ada scout masters were present except Harry Deering and Carl Spangler.

At this meeting rules and conditions for the coming inter-troop contest were discussed and definite plans will be announced next week.

Each troop should be on the watch for this and then get busy for we are sure that there is not a troop which would not like to take the trip to the Wichita mountains next summer. Frank Rush Oklahoma's greatest scout is over there and he can tell you much about all of Oklahoma's natural life and history.

Good Turns

Not long ago we were in Calvin, Oklahoma. We saw an elderly lady carrying a sack of meal. It was too heavy for her. They had no scouts in Calvin but they did have a boy there under scout age who had the true scout spirit. We suggested to him that he carry her meal for her, and he did it. Watch for the exceptional good turn that you can do and never let a day pass without doing a good turn to some one.

Troop 7 is in the spot light now. Clyde Allietag has put it there. He states that there were 25 boys out to scout meeting this week and that he had six new members to register. This troop went to the scout lodge last week and took many tests. Clyde is determined to have a group of advanced scouts and we believe that he will.

Troop 10 has a new scout master in Frank Evans. He met his troops at the Glenwood school Thursday night. Fine attendance and good spirit prevailed. A new game was sprung on the boys. They enjoyed it. Troop 9 boys came over and held a joint meeting with troop 10. Frank Evans states that his troop has the finest meeting place in town and that they are going hard after that free camping trip. If Farley Smith and Raymond Duke and three other boys had been present they would have had a perfect attendance Thursday evening is the meeting time. Be on hand for you will miss something.

Troop 9 has lost their fine scout master, Mr. U. C. Dixson. Pressing business duties compelled him to give up this fine troop. This troop will meet at Mr. Miller's home this Tuesday evening and they will elect new officers for the year. Only scouts who are going to be regular and who will work can expect to be elected to any office in this troop.

Harry Deering and Carl Spangler and say that troop 7, 10, 4, 3, and 2 had better watch out for we are going to get their goat. 7:15 is the meeting time for this troop. Be on hand. You might miss peanuts and popcorn or something else.

Troop 4 had a fine meeting last Thursday night. You couldn't help but have a fine meeting wherever Roy Meek and his fine scout officers are, for they plan things ahead of time. They get ready for their meetings and that is what makes it good. These boys say we won the free camping trip once and we know how to win another. We have the edge on Clyde Allietag's bunch and Frank Evans' too. We'll skin them all alive and leave their scalps a dangling on a tree like a butcher bird leaves a grass hopper on the barbed wire fence.

Troop 3 is waking up and will reorganize soon and push hard for the prize of the free camping trip. The Shriners of Ada look upon this bunch as theirs and A. L. Parker and Prof. Oscar Kimbrough say that though Prof. A. D. Bolton can help get his school scouts elected to high city offices yet he can't pull troop 7 high enough to get the free trip.

Prof. D. T. Bradshaw and his troop met on the high school lawn Wednesday evening and vow that that troop one will be a winner again just as it was in the balmy days of Dick Simpson, Jr., Glen Spencer Jimmie McCoy and the Page and Roach boys. Go to it scouts revere whole bunch of scouts and lets see you do it.

Friday

Troop 2 had 26 boys out to meeting last night. All of these boys are very anxious to go to Horseshoe ranch next week. Get up some tests this week. A certain boy scout of one of our troops wept into a store the other day and bought a pair of stockings. Mr. J. A. Biles the salesman gave him too much change. The boy had already told Mr. Biles that he was a scout and Mr. Biles told him how much everybody expected of the scout boys and so when the lad found out he had been given too much change he returned it to Mr. Biles. There are scores of Ada boys who would do that and we are mighty proud of this boy and of the many others who live up to the scout law. "A scout is trustworthy."

50 big juicy "T" bone steaks barbecued by Mr. Bill Coffman over the big barbecue pit on Horsehoe ranch, about one-half bushel of potatoes fried and 10 cans of corn, 250 hot biscuits with butter, two gallons of cold gravy, many pickles, several jars of peaches, constituted the feast on this Friday over night hike to this place already made famous by many big barbecues and social events, for the 42 scouts and the eight men who subject in a scholarly, masterful manner. His gesture seemed so natural on this overnight hike to this place. Only one boy was disappointed and that was Farley Smith of troop 10. Farley forgot himself and ate four green apples and then boxed four rounds with Dale Burt and the result was a severe case of cramps, which prevented his eating any supper, but John the fine courteous cook, fixed Farley up with some medicine and he was ready for a good hearty breakfast.

The scouts gave 15 "rags" for Mr. and Mrs. Norris, Mr. Bill Coffman, Rollow Hardware Co., Mr. Jordan and the other men in camp who helped to make this trip such an enjoyable success. The Ada scouts feel greatly indebted to all these good and generous people for this rare treat.

The following scouts who went on this trip were excused at 2:30 on account of averaging a grade of 90 in scholarship and conduct.

W. A. Lewis, Dale Burt, Bill Barringer and L. Clements of Irving school; Sorrell Perry, Ralph Holman, Gerald West, Edwin Gatlin, Buster Hough, Homer Willhite, Farley Smith, Randall Wells, Herbert Williams of Glenwood. Other scouts in other trips should bear in mind the fact that they will be excused at 2:30 Friday if they have an average grade in scholarship and conduct so that they can get an early start to Horse shoe ranch.

Scouts Wyman Gatlin, Earl Yates De Lapeth Gibson, Jack Dixson and Elliot Maynard delivered many posters advertising the coming school election. That is a fine good turn boys.

WHAT THEY SAY

The Reunion at Ada, Oklahoma.

The annual reunion at Ada held September 19, 20 and 21 gave the veterans of the Confederate Home an opportunity to exercise their wanderlust proclivities. So on the morning of the 19th, thirty inmates of the Home and several veterans from Ardmore journeyed to that delightful little city through the courtesy of the railroad. We were furnished with a wey equipped car with every modern convenience. This was made possible by the foresight of our superintendent, Mr. G. W. Lewis, who was made walking delegate, mascot and Grand Dragon of the Klan, assisted by Mrs. Lloyd as sponsor.

BANDITS GET FORTUNE IN THEFT OF WHISKY

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27.—A band of 40 men, some masked, bound and gagged the guard at the warehouse of the Philadelphia Distilling Co. at Eddington near here today and escaped with seven to 10 truck loads of whisky.

This was the second raid on the distillery in a month. A large number of men were driven away the first time before they were able to obtain any whisky.

Whisky valued at $2,500,000 was stored in the warehouse and a legal battle is now in progress in federal court here for its ownership.

There were three night guards and two engineers in the building when the armed bandits appeared. The five men were handcuffed and locked up in the engine room while the bandits rolled out barrel after barrel to the trucks. How many were taken cannot be determined until an inventory
